

About our CSA

The Enright Ridge Urban Eco-Village (ERUEV) is a community of people in Price Hill who are working to develop and live more earth-centered lifestyles while contributing to a more sustainable urban environment.

In February 2009 the EcoVillage, in collaboration with Imago and the Huber Foundation, bought the former Heavenly Haves florist greenhouse in the 800 block of Enright Avenue with the intention to start a community supported agriculture program (CSA). The Urban Earth Farms CSA is unique as it is located in an urban setting within Cincinnati.

Our Vision is that everyone in our diverse community has access to fresh, locally-grown food through cooperative and community efforts.

Our Mission is for Urban Earth Farms to grow and share food using earth-friendly practices while fostering a sense of community and providing education to create an equitable and sustainable local food system.

Share Options

There are four share options available.

A full share is an average amount of vegetables for a small family, or a couple who enjoys a vegetable-centric diet.

An alternate week share will meet the produce needs of one to two adults and is distributed every other week.

Share type	Cash/Check	Credit
Full	$550.00	$566.50
Full Work	$300.00	$309.00
Alternate Week	$275.00	$283.25
Alternate Week Work	$150.00	$154.50

A full work share requires 2 hours of work per week. An alternate week work share requires 25 hours of work as scheduled with the farm administrator.

Work can include hands on garden tasks, greenhouse market, community outreach, social media, education, social gatherings, volunteer groups, site maintenance, and many others! Some tasks are short term and others last months.

Nourishing community!

In addition to the wonderful harvest, you'll be invited to member events such as potlucks and picnics. You'll have opportunities to learn farming practices, attend workshops, and meet great people who care as much as you do about wholesome food and connection to community. With your share you'll get a weekly email with updates from your farmer, recipes, inspiration, and cooking tips.

We welcome questions and look forward to hearing from people who are interested in our eco-village as well as in joining our CSA.
